Carl Schuldt, Aged 63 Years of Tinley Passes Beyond

Mr. Schuldt was born in Mecklenburg-Schwaben, Germany, Oct. 2, 1861. At the age of 7 years he immigrated with his parents to America. They settled in Coopers Grove where they lived about 7 years following which they moved to Iowa where they lived for 3 years. They returned shortly after to this vicinity and resided here since.

Mokena Seeks Concrete Road

There is growing sentiment in Mokena that the north and south road running past the Bowman dairy plant should be a concrete road. This highway would be a short cut to connect up the Orland road with the Lincoln Highway south of here.

With the opening of the McIntosh subdivision at Mokena past which this highway runs it would be a big boom for Mokena to have this highway concreted. It is understood that a movement will be started soon to get the state interested in this road.

According to maps that have been issued, the road from Kankakee thru Frankfort to Orland is in line for construction under the $100,000,000 bond issue voted and passed on last fall.

If this road should be constructed it would be quite a boost to Frankfort, giving this town direct concrete connection with a large num-

Val. Scheer and F. Schmediknecht Sue Joe Greco

Val. H. Scheer, concrete contractor of Tinley Park and Fred Schmediknecht, also of this village, have instituted suit against Joe Greco also of Tinley Park, for labor performed on his new house, claiming their bills are past due and no effort has been made by Greco to pay them. The suits were filed in a Chicago Heights court and judgments have been returned against Greco it is said.

C. J. Hacker Given Permanent Position

Chas. J. Hacker of Mokena was the recipient of some very good news Wednesday when he was notified that he has been appointed as first trick towerman of the Rock Island at Washington Heights and that this job is permanent. The hours are 7 a. m. to 3:30 p. m.

Mr. Hacker has been working as towerman at the same place since 1913 but always on the night shift.

May Organize A Community Club At Tinley Park

A movement has been started in Tinley Park to organize a community club for the betterment of the community and it has been suggested that the old school building be purchased and converted into a club house.

The one time popular and flourishing Dramatic Club has over $500 in its treasury and some of the members were much in favor of donating this amount toward a fund for buying the old school, but some of the members were not in favor of the plan, so a mass meeting was held Wednesday night to discuss the matter.

Selby Hirsch is one of the main promoters of the Community Club plan. The idea appears to be taking quite well. If this plan is developed it will be a big boom for Tinley Park.

Worth Standard Oil Station Shows Big Business Gain

The Standard Oil Company of Worth reports a big gain in business the past year. The business of the local office shows a gain for 1924 of 19.2 per cent over 1923, which is an excellent record, placing the Worth station in second place out of 37 stations in the district. This shows that Worth is a prosperous town.

Considerable building activity is promised for Worth this spring and a busy year is ahead.

I. N. Empie, local druggist has been visiting relatives in Bloomington and also did some business on the side selling his electric signs.

The Worth Boosters' Club held a dance last Saturday night and enjoyed a very good patronage, a large crowd attending. This club may give more dances later on.

Worth is patiently waiting for word from the Public Service Co., as to what action this company is going to take relative to its petition which was circulated and signed last fall asking for an extension of the gas mains from Oak Lawn to Worth. The people of Worth are anxious to see this improvement go thru, as they have been able to enjoy the benefits of two other big improvements the past year by way of electric lights and concrete walks.

ber of towns in this section. Whether Mokena and Frankfort will both be able to get concrete roads or whether it will be built in one or the other of these towns is a question that is engaging much attention.

The CLEARING HOUSE

Editor, News Bulletin—

From the millions or more facts supplied us in a thousand pages of the Chicago Daily News Almanac of 1925, we gather many items of the most fascinating interest.

Here we are reminded that the United States covers 1,903,000,000 acres of land which is not twentieth of the landed area of the world. Living in the United States is 6 per cent of the people of the world and we produce 25 per cent of the wealth of the world.

In 1922 our aggregate wealth measured in money was $186,299,664,000—by 1922 our wealth had increased to $320,803,862,000. In 1912 our average wealth per person was $1900, which had increased to $2900 in 1922.

We are forced however with many regrets to admit that this cheerful statement of fabulous wealth is not exactly accurate owing to the extraordinary inflation in the currency.

Saying that a horse that was computed as worth $100 in 1912, was worth $200 in 1922, does not double the horse power in the United States. When we talk of increase in wealth we must refer to an increase in commodities and not merely the symbol used to measure these commodities. So far as our mathematicians can calculate they give our actual increase in wealth between 20 per cent and 30 per cent.

This fact is brought out fairly well in measuring our increase in agricultural products.

We are told as our introduction that the value of the fourteen major crops in the United States for 1912 was $14,693,862,080, but that in 1922 the value of the same crops was $28,428,480,000 or an increase of 100 per cent. But as we go farther into the subject we learn that we produced 265,000,000 tons of our 14 major crops which include corn, wheat, oats, barley, rye, buckwheat, flaxseed, potatoes, sweet potatoes, hay, corn cotton, tobacco, wool, which was 11,000,000 tons greater than the average for the preceding ten year period. This is an increase of only about 4 per cent. Our population for the same period increased about 8 per cent.

Less than a half century since 75 per cent of our people were engaged in agricultural pursuits today only 25 per cent are so engaged.

The answer is that farm implements and machinery have taken the place of human muscle. This labor displaced by machines has found greater returns in the industrial fields. Our increase of wealth has been due to our development in manufacturing transportation, mining, etc.

Notwithstanding this great shifting of agriculture to industrial pursuits it is interesting to note how we still lead the world on nearly all the major crops.

In 1923 we produced 976,181,700 bales of cotton and led the world.

We produced 1,299,823,000 bushels of tobacco and also lead.

We produced 867,598,000 bushels of wheat by far greater producer than Canada, France Russia or India, considered our competitors.

We produced 1,293,823,000 bushels of oats leading Canada, France, Germany, Poland. We produce 198,185,000 bushels of barley, which is a greater amount than is produced by France, Germany and Czechoslovakia combined, considered our competitors. France however produces more potatoes than U. S.; India and Argentine Republic more flaxseed, England more hops and Cuba, India, Java, Hawaii, Australia and even Formosa more sugar cane. We are completely outdistanced in rice and unshelled peanuts.

We import 876,795,000 lbs. of wool, 674,410,000 lbs. of rubber, 465,730,000 lbs. of cheese, 1,124,

MOKENA SCHOOL TUITION FEE OF $6 PER MONTH PER PUPIL EXCESSIVE SAYS L. G. BRUDER IN SCHOOL ROW

The Mokena school board and L. G. Bruder are figuring in an interesting case on school tuition to be charged for non resident pupils.

Mr. Bruder resides just across the line in New Lenox while two of his children are attending the Mokena school in Frankfort township and for which Mr. Bruder is paying the non-resident tuition fee.

But the fee that the Mokena school board is charging Mr. Bruder is the bone of contention. The Mokena Board is asking Mr. Bruder to pay a tuition fee of $6 per month for each of the two children mentioned and Mr. Bruder contends that this rate is excessive as well as unlawful as it would cost him $108 in tuition fees for nine months which is as much as he is paying for taxes on his farm land part of which is located in Frankfort township and part in New Lenox township. When Mr. Bruder refused to pay the tuition fee in question the Mokena school board caused his children to be debarred from this school until this tuition fee is paid.

Mr. Bruder says he is going to fight the Mokena school board and has taken the matter up with an attorney who declared that the $6 rate per month per child is excessive. Mr. Bruder has also taken the matter up with State Supt., of Instruction Blair at Springfield. He has also asked the Mokena School Board to show why they demand the fee in question. The tuition fee charged by the Frankfort village school board for non resident pupils has never been in excess of $3 per month per pupil while at Tinley Park the school tuition rate is only $25 per school year per non-resident pupil. Mr. Bruder wants to know why he should pay more tuition for his children than is being charged in the towns mentioned who both have new modern school buildings while Mokena has a school building over 50 years old and far from being modern Mr. Bruder declares. He has also taken this matter up with the McIntosh Realty Company of Chicago who are planning to open a subdivision north of Mokena showing them that people will not locate in this subdivision if they have to pay such a high tuition rate for this subdivision is outside of the village school district.

Mr. Bruder maintains that a fee of $3 per month would be reasonable but that the present fee of $6 per month per pupil is excessive. The outcome of this controversy is being watched with keen interest.

Following is a letter issued by the Mokena School Board to A. L. Brown, Principal of the Mokena Public School asking that three pupils be debarred from the school for non-payment of tuition fee:

Mokena, Ill., January 30th, 1925
Mr. A. L. Brown, Principal,
Mokena Public School,
Mokena, Illinois.

Dear Sir:
Attached find copies of bills mailed for unpaid tuition. Unless tuition is taken care of on or before February 1st, 1925 it will be necessary to deny school privileges to the following pupils: Leonard Bruder, Betty Jane Bruder, Gerhardt Barlewort.

Kindly be governed accordingly. Respectfully,
Board of School Directors Dist. 159
Per J. C. Nielsen, Clerk.

It is understood that the tuition for Gerhardt Barlewort has been paid, but Mr. Bruder has refused to pay the tuition for his children on the grounds that the fee is excessive and his children are out of school. Mr. Bruder has written the following letter to the Mokena School Board.

Mokena, Ill., February 4, 1925.
Mr. J. C. Nielsen, Clerk,
School District No. 159,
Mokena, Ill.

Dear Sir:
As a taxpayer in your School District, I wish that you would please be kind enough to advise me how you arrived at the tuition of $6 a month for a non-resident.

Will appreciate it very much if you will furnish me with this information promptly.

Yours very truly,
L. G. BRUDER

"IT ISN'T ENDED"

SYNOPSIS.—Nurses in the southern hospital at Avonmouth are angered by the insolent treatment accorded them by Dr. John Lancaster, head of the institution, and there is a general feeling of unrest, into which Joan Wentworth, probationary nurse, is drawn. Doctor Lancaster is performing a difficult operation, for which he has won fame. Joan, with other nurses, is in attendance. She is upset, through no fault of her own, and makes a trivial blunder at a critical moment. The patient dies and Doctor Lancaster accuses her of clumsiness. She is suspended, the action meaning the end of her hope of a career as a nurse.

CHAPTER II—Continued

In the town of forty thousand inhabitants Joan was as isolated as she had been in the latter years at home. Her life was as unsophisticated and as simple, and she was so unacquainted with the conditions and circumstances of existence that her dismissal seemed to her an irreparable disaster. She had won good opinions, she had been praised, and it seemed monstrous that her faintness at a critical moment should have ruined her whole life prospects. What made the tragedy the less tolerable was the admixture of the farcical. There was a simple and absurd explanation. Mrs. Webb's colored cook, Amanda, had quarreled with her mistress that morning, and Joan had had to go to the hospital without her breakfast.

She got up and walked slowly homeward without having resolved her problem. Inside the boarding house the air was like a furnace, and the smell of cooking was triumphant and dominant.

Inside the kitchen, seen through the open door, was Amanda, the cook, and Mrs. Webb, the landlady.

"Here's Amanda again!" Mrs. Webb called to Joan. "My dear, the idea of your running away without your breakfast this morning! Now you sit right down and have your lunch, Miss Wentworth!"

Joan was not hungry, but it was impossible to oppose the resolute insistence of Mrs. Webb, backed by the penitent cook, whose black face, as she flitted from the kitchen to the dining room, radiated remorse and good intentions.

"One can't get along without the proper food at the proper times," said Mrs. Webb as she set down the dishes before Joan. "But I call it real sensible of you to have come home early. Some girls wouldn't have thought of that."

Joan choked suddenly, and Mrs. Webb perceived her distress. She bent over her and placed a kitchen-roughened hand upon her shoulder.

"My dear, what is it? What is the matter? Something gone wrong at that old hospital?" she asked. "Tell me now, honey!"

"It isn't anything, Mrs. Webb," said Joan, striving valiantly to keep back her tears. "Well, then, I'm—I'm discharged."

Mrs. Webb withdrew her hand and placed it upon one hip, bringing the other into corresponding position. She glared at Joan, as the convenient focus of her indignation.

"I never heard of such a thing!" she cried. "Who's dared to discharge you, Miss Wentworth? Why, it was only yesterday Miss Gray was saying you were the only one in the hospital that attended to her work instead of trying to make dates with the doctors! I've had the nurses two years now, Miss Wentworth, and they ain't a snap better than the salesladies I used to keep. A pack of featherheads! If some of them had been discharged 'twould serve them right. But not you, my dear. It's that old Doctor Lancaster!"

"It was, and I think he was right. I felt faint from the smell of ether—"

"Of course you did!" cried Mrs. Webb. "I always knew the day would come when you would. Those smells make my head go round and round whenever I take the short cut that side of the park. I always said you weren't cut out for that sort of work. It's all right for them strong horse girls that's made for it, but what you need is to marry some good man who can take care of you, not to go nursing a lot of dock-hands and seeing people's insides opened up. It's my belief that when the Lord put our insides inside and our outsides outside he meant 'em to stay there," snorted Mrs. Webb.

"Well," said Joan wearily, "it's ended now. And I don't know what I'm going to do."

"But I say it isn't ended!" cried Mrs. Webb, concentrating all her indignation against Lancaster in a venomous glare at Joan. "It's only just begun. If that old Doctor Lancaster dares to discharge you, I'm going to tell everything I know about him, Miss Wentworth, that man's no more fit to be at the head of a hospital, with ladies under him, than he's fit to fly. What is he? Nothing but a fast liver and a common drunkard."

"Never mind, Mrs. Webb!"

"But I do mind. To think of a man like that, who went about with a gang of common tramps for years, Miss Wentworth, just breaking away from his job and hobnobbing it up and down the country and then coming back and getting his job again and acting as he does! All that I say is common knowledge. Five years after the hospital had seen the last of him in he walks, as bold as brass, and puts the head doctor out, and says the hospital's his and he's going to run it again. And him being in charge of the nurses—him that runs 'round in his auto with every pack of cheap actresses that comes to Avonmouth! I know what they are! I haven't been in the boarding house business twenty years for nothing!"

Mrs. Webb was becoming incoherent. Joan succeeded in stopping the flow of vilification at last, mainly because Mrs. Webb had exhausted it.

"Now I tell you what you are going to do, my dear," she said. "You're going straight to that old Lancaster's house and you are going to ask for your place back. And you're going to get it, too."

"Mrs. Webb, how can I do that?"

"How can you do it? Why, you can manage him all right, my dear. Yes, I guess 'tis going to be all right. I suppose he lost his temper. When a man leads the sort of life he does he hasn't much good humor left the morning after. I know about that. You just go to him and act as if you didn't care much and let him think you look on him as just the finest man in the world."

"Please, Mrs. Webb!" expostulated Joan; and as she spoke there came back into her mind vividly the sinister advice of the dark-haired girl.

"You've only got to let him see your face, my dear," continued the landlady. "You see, it's this way. When he's in the hospital he's thinking about his work. A nurse is just a nurse to him then. But after his work's over she's different. Now don't tell me you can't make that man do anything you want him to, because I know better."

Joan crimsoned. "I couldn't think of such a thing," she protested.

"And why not?" inquired the other. "If you've got good looks, ain't you going to use them? It isn't as if I was asking you to do anything wrong."

Joan looked at Mrs. Webb in great distress. She rose, but the landlady followed her toward the door.

"You see, my dear," she went on, "if you were given that sort of face by the Almighty, why shouldn't you use it to get plain, common justice done you? It's your job that's at stake, and you all alone in the world. All you've got to do is to make him forget that he's dealing with a nurse. There isn't anybody would think twice about it. Didn't Amanda do it this morning, coming to me with her big, black, honest face, and looking at me so that I had to take her back, as I was glad enough to do? You go straight and see that old Lancaster and try it, that's all!"

A nurse passed the window and came up the steps.

"Mrs. Webb, you won't say a word about what I've told you to the others, please?" asked Joan.

She flew upstairs and, flinging herself down on her bed, stared out dismally toward the monument. The catastrophe had swept her little, unsheltered world away. The sense of her loneliness swept over her like a black cloud, appalling her. She was cut off from life, and utterly helpless outside the medium in which she had lived.

Because she felt this sense of homesickness, her outraged pride began to vanish before the terrors that her imagination conjured up. Starvation, the ultimate terror of her childish days on the estate, which like a living thing had gnawed into her mother's nine hundred dollars, seemed incredibly real and near. She must ask for her position back!

She must face Lancaster in his home, humble her pride, and bow to him; but she watched the sun decline and the shadows lengthen, and for a time she could not bring herself to her task.

What strengthened her at last was the realization that her status must be settled before she faced the day nurses coming home off duty. She slipped on her cloak and went out of the house softly, and to escape the landlady's attentions Joan went hastily toward Lancaster's house.

She had passed it almost daily on her journeys to and from the hospital. It was an ordinary brick house in a new block at the north end of the park, and commonplace enough, but now, to her excited eyes, it seemed to reflect the grim personality of its owner in the staring windows, with the shining door knobs of brass, and the brass name plate. Her heart was beating with panic, and it was with difficulty that she contrived to press the bell and to remain until the door was opened.

A white attendant confronted her—a sullen, undersized man with square shoulders, who scowled at her as he stood blocking the passage.

"Doctor Lancaster?" asked Joan.

"He doesn't see patients after five," answered the man.

"I must see him. It is important," faltered the girl.

"Well, I'll find out if he can see you," the fellow grumbled. "Walk in if you want to."

He had not recognized Joan's uniform beneath the cloak. She gave him her card and went into the waiting room. There the sense of the terror which made that place its domain, the accumulated fears of all who had ever waited there for the approaching verdict, seemed to leap out at her.

Then Joan heard Lancaster's voice in the next room, which was divided from the waiting room by folded doors. It was audible as a bass rumble, emerging occasionally into a distinguishable sound. Lancaster was talking with somebody, and he was growing angry. That was an ill omen of what was to come!

Joan braced her nerves. She was anything but a coward, and, having made up her mind, she intended to carry her scheme through.

Suddenly Lancaster's voice was raised in violent altercation.

"A nice mess you've made of everything!" he cried. "I've tolerated you too long. I've been a fool, but I've finished with you now. Go back where you came from!"

Another voice spoke in indistinct tones. It was that of a man, and it was almost abject in contrast with Lancaster's violence.

"I've finished with you, I tell you!" cried Lancaster. "I've borne this burden long enough. You can get out of my house. You can get out of my life."

"I've borne it long enough, too," replied the other, doggedly. "Who started it? Who made the first proposal?"

"I did, out of kindness to you. And how have you repaid me?"

"By placing myself, soul and body, at your service," retorted the second man, aroused into some show of spirit. "Who picked you out of the gutter and set you on your feet?" rejoined the doctor. "Answer that! You can't! You know you can't! Where would you be today if it were not for me?"

The second man said something in a low voice.

"Myers? A lot I care about that!" retorted Lancaster. "I tell you—what's that?" The white attendant was speaking at the door. Joan recognized his rasping voice.

"No! No!" cried Lancaster, violently. "I see nobody. Why can't these women come during my hours? Aren't they posted plainly enough upon the card in my window? Tell her?—what? Important? Well, let her wait, then, until I get ready to see her."

The man's steps died away along the rear end of the passage. Joan heard the two men talking again. Then the sounds ceased. She heard the floor in the adjoining room creak beneath a quick tread. Lancaster was coming in! Her fears gave her resolution. She would anticipate that movement, see him, insist. She left the waiting room and went into the hall.

It was hung with little pictures of a uniform size, each exactly like its neighbor. It came into the girl's mind, even during those few hasty steps, that this was essentially a man's house; a woman would have arranged things differently, have given the place personality, have made her presence felt somehow, even in the decoration of this dark passage. The atmosphere was that of an institution, not of a home.

Then she was standing with caught breath at the door of the consulting room, which was a little ajar, as if the catch had become unfastened. She knocked, opened it, and went in.

Is it legitimate for a pretty girl to vamp her way, when ordinary methods fail? What do you think?

Tells Work of Statesmen

The Congressional Record is a journal of the proceedings of the congress of the United States, dating from 1793. Prior to that date the senate held secret sessions only, but thereafter publication was required, save in the case of "executive sessions." Record has been the title since 1875. Before that date the journal was entitled Annals of Congress (1789-99 for the house and 1799-1824 for both branches), Register of Debates until 1837, and through 1874 Congressional Globe.

Worn Out Since the Grip?

WEAK, nervous—just tired and miserable most of the time? Back lame and achy, too? Rheumatic pains torture you at every step?

Then you should look to your kidneys! Colds and chills are apt to weaken the kidneys and allow toxic poisons to upset blood and nerves. Then may come daily backache, stabbing pains, headaches, dizziness, and irregular or painful passage of the kidney secretions.

Don't risk neglect. Help your weakened kidneys with Doan's Pills. Doan's have brought new health to thousands. They should help you. Ask your neighbor!

An Illinois Case

D. F. Flowers, contractor and retired farmer, 600 Tenth St., Rochelle, Ill., says: "Colds affected my kidneys and I was troubled with a lame back. Dull pains in my back wore on me for when I bent over it was hard to straighten. My kidneys were weak and sluggish, too. I used Doan's Pills and they cured the attack."

Stop Child's Cough Quick--To-day

Before it has a chance to develop into croup or something dangerous, get right after that cough of your child's. No use to dose with ordinary cough syrups. At once give Kemp's Balsam—a fine old-fashioned tried and proven medicine safe for children. It heals the throat and prevents the cold from going through the whole system. Only 3c cents at all stores.

Castoria is a pleasant, harmless Substitute for Castor Oil, Paregoric, Teething Drops and Soothing Syrups, especially prepared for Infants in arms and Children all ages.

To avoid imitations, always look for the signature of Charles H. Fletcher. Proven directions on each package. Physicians everywhere recommend it.

Teach your child Internal cleanliness

THE mother who permits constipation in her baby or older child is risking the health, even the life, of her little one.

Fretfulness, feverishness, night terrors, grinding the teeth in sleep, biliousness, coated tongue, loss of appetite, any of these may indicate constipation. Poisons from the child's stagnant intestine are flooding the little body, and if left unchecked may lead to serious consequences.

Avoid Laxatives—Say Doctors

A noted authority says that laxatives do not overcome constipation, but by their continued use tend only to aggravate the condition.

Medical science has found in lubrication a means of overcoming constipation. The gentle lubricant, Nujol, penetrates and softens the hard food waste and hastens its passage through and out of the body. Nujol is not a medicine or laxative and cannot gripe. Like pure water, it is harmless.

Let your infant or child have Nujol regularly, and see rosy cheeks, clear eyes and happiness return once more.

Nujol is used in children's and general hospitals and is prescribed by physicians throughout the world.

Let Tanlac restore your health

If your body is all fagged-out and run-down, if you are losing weight steadily, lack appetite, have no strength or energy—why not let Tanlac help you back to health and strength?

So many millions have been benefited by the Tanlac treatment, so many thousands have written to testify to that effect that it's sheer folly not to make the test.

Tanlac, you know, is a great natural tonic and builder, a compound, after the famous Tanlac formula, of roots, barks and herbs. It purges the blood stream, revitalizes the digestive organs and enables the sickly body to regain its vanished weight.

You don't need to wait long to get results. Tanlac goes right to the seat of trouble. In a day or so you note a vast difference in your condition. You have more appetite, sleep better at night and the color begins to creep back into your washed-out cheeks.

Don't put off taking Tanlac another precious day. Step into

School by Candle

Master Rodriguez Madora, one of the most famous elementary school teachers in Spain, has declined to teach classes beneath electric lights. He says the glare of these lights is ruinous to pupils' eyes and that they also serve to distract their attention from their studies. He has demanded that candle light be restored in his classrooms.

Merely Change of Lines

As George Robey, an English actor, was entering the stage door, he was held up by a "resting" brother professional, who announced impersonally that if only he could raise the fare to Sheffield he would be working over Easter.

"But dash it," said Robey, "it's not three hours ago, outside the Cavour, that you pitched me the same tale about going to Plymouth—and touched!"

Undeafened, the brazen one gulped, took a firm hold of his unsteady wits, and retorted with vast indignation: "Well, what of it, George? What of it? Even you change your patter, don't you?"

Croup Means Danger!

Be prepared to open the dangerously clogged throat the instant an unexpected attack arrives. A well-known physician's prescription brings relief without vomiting, in 15 minutes. It is the quickest known relief for Coughs, Colds and Whooping Cough, and has been used in millions of homes for 35 years. ### HOW TO SOLVE A CROSS-WORD PUZZLE

When the correct letters are placed in the white spaces this puzzle will spell words both vertically and horizontally. The first letter in each word is indicated by a number, which refers to the definition listed below the puzzle. Thus No. 1 under the column headed "horizontal" defines a word which will fill the white spaces up to the first black square to the right, and a number under below. No letters go in the black spaces. All words used are dictionary words, except proper names. Abbreviations, slang, initials, technical terms and obsolete forms are indicated in the definitions.

Head and Intellect

Provided a man does not slow down his mental activity the size of his head will keep on increasing even after the age of fifty, says Le Petit Parisien, as translated for the Kansas City Star.

Such is the theory advanced by John Millot, a Brighton phrenologist, at the recent annual meeting of the Phrenological Society of Great Britain.

In support of his assertion the scientist gave two examples. "For instance," said he, "the circumference of Lloyd George's head has increased six and one-fourth millimeters in eight years and the head of the novelist Bath Kennedy shows an enlargement of eighteen and three-fourths millimeters in the last ten years, in the course of which he has written eleven books."

Boschee's Syrup

Allays irritation, soothes and heals throat and lung inflammation. The constant irritation of a cough keeps the delicate mucus membrane of the throat and lungs in a congested condition, which BOSCHEE'S SYRUP gently and quickly heals. For this reason it has been a favorite household remedy for colds, coughs, bronchitis and especially for lung troubles in millions of homes all over the world for the last fifty-eight years, enabling the patient to obtain a good night's rest, free from coughing with easy expectation in the morning. You can buy BOSCHEE'S SYRUP wherever medicines are sold.—Adv.

Meteors on View

Millions of meteors are consumed by our atmosphere every year, but only the larger ones show that long streak of vivid light which everyone has seen on a starry night when the air is clear. Visitors to the Natural History museum at South Kensington, England, may examine at their leisure many meteorites which the atmosphere has failed wholly to consume, and which have been found buried in the earth in different parts of the world.

This is the wonderful six tube Radiola Super-Heterodyne. No aerial or ground wires to muss up your home. It uses dry cell batteries and it brings in plenty of distance over the loud speaker. With this set you write down the call letters on the dial and when you wish to listen to a certain station, you simply turn the pointer to the place you marked, and presto! you have music or speech, loud and clear. The simplest set to operate that is made.

What a distinction one feels in owning a Radiola Super-Heterodyne, because he has a set that does not squeal or howl, looks nice, and works when ever you turn it on. If you have an inferior set, no doubt you have often times, especially when company comes had that keen disappointment of your radio set not working. You will buy a Radiola some day. Why not NOW? The Radiola Super-Heterodyne is the best Radio you can buy regardless of price.

This is the Radiola IIIA a four tube set, operated with dry cell batteries. It comes complete with a Radiola Loud Speaker, Head Phones and four Radiotron tubes.

This set in the mahogany cabinets with built in Loud Speaker, space for batteries and installed complete for $112, is a real bargain, and it will give you plenty of long distance over the Loud Speaker.

Recently I received a letter from Miss Agnes White, Route No. 5, Lockport, Ill., who purchased one of these sets last spring, and she enclosed a list of 68 stations she had received. It completely covered the United States and a large part of Canada. This set being a Radiola, also works whenever you turn it on.

Any Radiola can be purchased on the time payment plan of 25 per cent down, plus interest when set is delivered and the balance in ten equal monthly payments.

If you are interested in Radio don't hesitate for a demonstration. It will not obligate you in anyway.

Perhaps you need some extra outlets in your home. I will be glad to give you a free estimate on any electrical work you need done.

Grandmother's Cough Remedy—Pine Tar and Honey—Still Best

A well-known specialist said recently that although many wonderful medical discoveries have been made in recent years, nobody has found a better and quicker healing agent for coughs, chest colds, spasmodic croup, hoarseness, throat tickling and other throat and bronchial troubles than good old pine-tar and honey. Our grandmothers would never be without pine tar syrup in the house, and they raised large families. It still remains one of the few medicines that can be given to young and old alike, as it contains no harmful drugs.

The pine-tar quickly soothes and heals soreness and irritation, and by loosening the phlegm removes the actual cause of the coughing. The honey is not only pleasant to the taste but also very soothing to the throat.

The kind that has been used with never-failing success in thousands of families for years is that known as Dr. Bell's Pine-Tar Honey. This is scientifically compounded of just the right proportions of pine tar, honey and other quick-acting, healing ingredients which the best doctors have found to aid in quick relief. If you want the best, be sure to get Dr. Bell's Pine-Tar Honey. It costs only 30c at any good drugstore.

CHRIST'S INTERCESSORY PRAYER

LESSON TEXT—John 17:1-26.
GOLDEN TEXT—"Holy Father, keep through thine own name those whom thou hast given me, that they may be one, as we are."—John 17:11.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Jesus Praying for His Friends.
JUNIOR TOPIC—What Jesus Prayed For.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Christ's Prayer for His Disciples.
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Christ's Intercessory Prayer.

I. His Prayer for Himself (vv. 1-5). Fully conscious that the hour of His crucifixion was at hand He prayed to the Father saying, "Glorify thy Son, that thy Son also may glorify Thee." His coming into the world had as its supreme mission the glorification of the Father. In order that the Father might be glorified it was necessary that the Son should be glorified.

1. To Him Had Been Given the Power to Give Eternal Life to God's Chosen Ones (vv. 2, 3). Eternal life is knowledge of and a right relation to the true God and Jesus Christ. Thus we see that eternal life is a relationship and not an entity.

2. He Declared That He Had Finished the Work Committed Unto Him (v. 4). The definite work which He came to do was to give eternal life to the chosen of God.

II. His Prayer for His Immediate Disciples (vv. 6-19).

1. Their Preservation (vv. 9-16). He did not pray that they would be taken out of the world but that they might be kept from the Evil One. It is not the divine will that we go to heaven at once when we believe because:

(1) Christ needs our ministry. Those who have been made partakers of the divine life are His representatives in the world.

(2) We need His grace strengthened and developed in us. Heaven is a prepared place and only those who have been prepared for it can be admitted into it.

(3) The world needs us. Christ declares that the disciples are the light of the world, the salt of the earth (Matt. 5:16). Only as the light of the Lord shines forth through the disciples can the people in the world find their way.

2. Their Sanctification (vv. 17-19).

(1) Sanctify means: First, to set apart; that means then that the disciples were to be set apart to do the specific work of representing Christ; second, to cleanse; those who are set apart as His representatives need the special cleansing grace to make them vessels fit for the Master's use.

(2) The instrument used (v. 17). They were to be sanctified through God's truth. God's truth is His Word.

(3) The purpose (v. 18). They were sanctified in order that they might be qualified for His service in the world.

(4) Jesus' own sanctification was for that purpose (v. 19). He is the grand example.

III. His Prayer for His Future Disciples (vv. 20-26).

1. Their Unification (vv. 20-23). His great concern was that all believers should be united.

(1) The grand pattern of this spiritual union is the union that exists between the Father and the Son (v. 21).

(2) The incentive making possible this union (v. 22). The vision of the glory of God in Christ (II Cor. 3:18) is the grand incentive which unites the believers.

(3) The purpose (v. 23). The supreme objective in the unification of the believers is to convince the world that God sent Jesus Christ to save it.

2. Their Glorification (vv. 24-26). The disciple of Christ enjoys fellowship with the Father and the Son and fellowship with his fellow believer, but he also looks forward to the time when he shall be glorified.

(1) "I will that they be with Me where I am" (v. 24). There is a present glory enjoyed by believers.

(a) They are now children of God, although it does not yet appear what they shall be.

(b) They now possess eternal life and therefore shall never perish. While there is the present glory, Jesus wants His disciples to be with Him in Heaven. He said, "Except a grain of wheat fall into the ground and die, it abideth alone." We can reverently say that unless the believer is taken to Heaven Christ will be lonely.

(2) "Behold my glory" (v. 24). The believer shall share the ineffable glory of Christ (I John 3:1-3).

The Master-Word

The master-word of Christianity is love.

Charity

A bone to the dog is not charity. Charity is the bone shared with the dog when you are just as hungry as the dog.

Never Be Afraid

Never be afraid of giving up your best—and God will give you His better.

Men's Muscles

Men's muscles move better when their souls are making merry music.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

DR. FREDERICK R. GREEN

Editor of "HEALTH"

(©, 1925, Western Newspaper Union.)

CARING FOR THE AGED

IT WAS long ago recognized that babies need special care. The infant's body is not like the adult body. It requires food and care, both in health and sickness, which are suited to it. So we have, in the medical profession, a group of men who have given special attention to the needs of child life. We have books and pamphlets and articles, telling mothers and nurses how to care for the very young.

At the other extreme of human life are the very old. Their bodies and their ills, like those of the very young, need special care and treatment. This fact has only recently been recognized.

In a recent article in the Virginia Medical Monthly, Dr. Thomas H. Boggs of Baltimore considers some of the special problems of old age. With the increasing length of life, the subject is of greater importance than ever before. In many households today there are aged persons who need special care.

The aged person, like the infant, is frail. Physically and mentally, he lacks the elasticity and quick rebound of the vigorous person of middle life. Old persons are apt to be talkative, fretful, strongly attached to their old views, unable to fix the mind on new subjects. The mind like the body has gotten into ruts through its long years of use. These habits of living, if suddenly broken, may cause serious results. Slight injuries or operations, sudden changes in surroundings, occupation or living conditions have a much more marked effect on the old than on the middle aged.

One of the most important physical difficulties of old age is constipation, due to loss of teeth and, consequently, reduced chewing ability, reduced activity of digestion, poor selection of food and lack of exercise. Properly fitted false teeth, the use of foods containing fiber, such as bran, spinach, lettuce, celery and cabbage, drinking plenty of water and the administration of mild, non-irritating laxatives, such as mineral oil, will be of value in such cases.

Many old persons from habit eat too much. A simple diet of well-cooked foods is best, avoiding fats, fried foods and too much starch.

Heavy exercise is, of course, out of the question. For the old, so long as they are physically able, walking is the best—outdoors in good weather, or the porch or indoors on stormy days.

In spite of frequent newspaper reports, no gland treatment, either by transplantation or serum, is of any value. The human machine in old age is worn and fragile. It cannot be made young again. Since it cannot change, living conditions must be adapted to it.

THE "GOLD CURE" FOR TUBERCULOSIS

CONSUMPTIVES are always hopeful. Persons suffering from other diseases often lose hope early in the fight, and their friends and relatives find great difficulty in encouraging them to make an effort to get well. But the tuberculosis patient almost always expects to get well. Indeed, there seems to be something stimulating about the tuberculosis poison. The mind is not only keen and active; in some cases it is abnormally brilliant. Some of the greatest works of literature have been written by persons far gone with consumption. Keats and Robert Louis Stevenson are two brilliant examples.

The consumptive always expects to be cured, somehow, sometime. This peculiar optimism also makes the consumptive a ready believer in any new treatment. More fake cures and patent medicines for consumption have been sold than for any other disease. In the last twenty-five years innumerable serums, vaccines and drugs have been promoted as tuberculosis cures. Each one lasted for a short time and was forgotten.

The latest is the "gold cure." Gold has always had a magical appeal to the public. Witness the "gold treatment" for alcoholism. Yet gold as a drug has little if any effect on the human body.

Professor Moellgard of Denmark recently announced to the Danish Medical society that if a solution of a gold salt was introduced into the blood, there was no effect, if the patient was healthy, but if he had tuberculosis, a violent reaction followed. This was presumably due to the releasing of the tubercle germs. Doctor Moellgard said that he had cured two monkeys by this treatment. Several other Danish physicians have tried it with good results. But several deaths following it also occurred.

Doctor Moellgard himself is very cautious in his statements and has asked the Medical Research Council of Great Britain to investigate it.

The most that can be said about it, at present, is that it is an entirely new method of the value of which we know nothing. Until greater experience increases our knowledge, it is not a safe or promising treatment.

The more we know about consumption, the less reason we have to expect that any drug will cure it. Tuberculosis is a disease of civilization. The only treatment that offers any hope is rest, good food, fresh air and sunshine.

DOGS BRING SERUM TO RELIEVE NOME

Thrilling Race Staged in Alaska by Mushers to Save
Diphtheria Victims.

Nome, Alaska.—Stricken Nome's long awaited diphtheria serum has arrived.

Out of a howling blizzard at 5:20 o'clock in the morning, a great team of strong-hearted Siberian huskies, goaded on to the last measure of their strength by one of the Northland's best dog drivers, dragged the life-saving antitoxin into the settlement.

The serum, frozen solid in its containers, despite its layers of packing, was turned over to Dr. Curtis Welch, Nome's lone physician, who immediately began the task of thawing it out and testing its strength.

It is expected the serum will save the lives of many diphtheria victims and check the spread of the scourge, which is claiming new victims at the rate of one a day.

The last lap of the race with death was made by Gunnar Kasson, hero of hundreds of dog derbies in the old days, who mushed 60 miles through the death of night with the temperature ranging from 25 to 40 below zero.

Pulling out of bluff at 10 o'clock at night with his champion team of Siberian wolves, Kasson encountered a blizzard, but he didn't turn back. Unaware of the fact that relays had been established every ten or fifteen miles for the last dash into Nome, he kept on, passing through Solomon and later through Safety, where fresh teams and mushers were waiting.

When he pulled into Nome in the morning, four of his dogs were badly frozen and it was with difficulty that his hands were freed from the handles of the sled.

Despite this, Kasson brought the serum into the city far ahead of time, closing a test of bravery on the part of men who comprise this American outpost that has held the rapt attention of the entire United States for days.

The 665 miles of trail over which the relays of dog teams sped had never been covered before in less than nine days. In this test the distance was done in five days.

Kasson made his 60 miles in seven hours and forty minutes. He got the package from Musher Olson, who in turn had picked up the serum from the weary team of Hammon, another famed dog driver, who had driven the huskies 130 miles from Nome to meet Leonard Seppala, champion musher of the north country.

It was Seppala who bore the brunt of the most vicious winter-riden stretch of the entire 665-mile race—scores of miles deep in fresh fallen snow and with temperatures far below zero, where not another human was alive to help him.

From Seppala's dogs, exhausted and with ice-torn feet, Hammon took the antitoxin and sped 40 miles to where Olson waited.

With five already dead, 25 stricken and more than 100 persons rendered liable to the disease by contact with sufferers, Nome faced a horrible condition because its last drop of serum had been used up days ago.

Stone Reports Gain in Battle On Rum Runners

Washington.—Although stating that much progress has been made toward the solution of the liquor smuggling problem, Attorney General Stone admitted that 332 vessels flying foreign flags were now engaged in carrying liquor to this country and that a large amount of "booze" was being illegally introduced from Canada.

As an evidence of the good work being done by the coast guard in fighting rum smugglers, the attorney general, in an authorized report, said that between May 22, 1924, and the end of the calendar year, 16 foreign rum-running vessels had been seized. Thirteen were British, one Norwegian, one French, and one Italian.

The report says that of the 332 rum runners, 307 fly the British flag, ten are Norwegian, four French, and the remainder have flags of various other nations. A great many of these, the reports says, do nothing but smuggle liquor. Others are engaged in the traffic only casually. Practically all of their sail on fraudulent clearance papers.

Tells How to End Night Coughing

To quickly stop hacking, irritating coughing at night, a very simple treatment may be had that often enables you to sleep the whole night through undisturbed almost at once.

The treatment is based on a remarkable prescription known as Dr. King's New Discovery for Coughs. You simply take a teaspoonful at night before retiring, and hold it in your throat for 15 or 20 seconds before swallowing it, without following with water. The prescription has a double action. It not only soothes and relieves irritation and soreness, but it quickly loosens and removes the phlegm and congestion which are the direct cause of the coughing. So no matter whether your cough is dry and tight, or loose with much mucus, the coughing soon stops, you can usually sleep your accustomed time without a break, and the whole cough condition goes in a very short time.

The prescription contains absolutely no narcotics or other harmful drugs. Instead of merely numbing the nerves, it actually helps the system to throw off the trouble in a perfectly natural way. Furthermore, it is very economical, the dose being only one teaspoonful. It is highly recommended for coughs, chest colds, tickling, hoarseness and bronchitis, and is wonderful for children's coughs and spasmodic croup. On sale at all good druggists. Ask for Large Hotel Staff.

Six of the largest hotels in New York city, under the control of one company, employ 510 cooks, nearly 1,000 waiters, besides an average of 2,000 extra waiters for banquets. In all, they have 6,200 employees, representing over twenty trades and several professions.

CLEARING HOUSE

661,000 lbs. of coffee and 4,860-810,000 lbs. of sugar.

Of our 1,000,000,000 acres of land we are only farming about 350,000,000 acres and yet agricultural experts advise us that we have 1,000,000,000 acres practically as fertile as any at present under the plow. We are now using about three acres per person and yet if our experts are correct we could easily feed and cloth 450,000,000 persons as easily as we meet the demands of one third that number.

Our own agricultural reports seem to indicate we are in no danger of overcrowding.

When we consider that outside of the U. S. there are nearly 2,000,000,000 people and nearly forty billion acres of land just as fertile as that within the U. S. we surely see no basis to fear famine. Our population is not a problem for the human family to deal with.

When we consider that the desire for a home is probably the strongest passion in the human breast it seems unexplainable to note our growth in tenantry and mortgaged homes in spite of our perfectly marvelous increase in wealth and wealth producing power. We have in the U. S. 24,351,676 families—12,943,598 or 54 4-10 per cent live in rented homes 10,866,969 or 45 6-10 per cent own their homes but 4059,593 or 17.5-10 per cent of this number are mortgaged—so that only 28 1-10 our families in this wonderful and beautiful land own their homes free of all encumbrance.

The shocking fact is developed in glancing through the statistics is that the number who own their homes free of encumbrance is steadily decreasing.

Here is surely a problem for our statesmen!

Wonderful production of wealth, hundreds of millions of acres of unused fertile land—every normal person wanting a home and yet more than 70 per cent of our families for some reason not owning one.

Yours very truly,
F. H. Monroe

Prophecy

THERE were few who shared the faith of the pioneers who undertook the development of the telephone.

With an infant art to nourish constantly by new discovery and invention, and handicapped by scanty capital and public apathy, they held to their vision of a nation-wide service.

Nearly two score years ago, when the telephones of the United States were fewer than those of the State of Illinois to-day, the business was organized essentially like the Bell System of the present. That is: a central advisory staff, a central scientific organization devoted to development and research, a central department to promote progress in operating technique, a central source of supply of standardized material, local operating companies familiar with local needs, and a national network of lines interconnecting these companies.

Telephone pioneers planned this organization structure, believing it necessary for efficient and economical national service. The nation's experience has proved the clearness of their vision.
